Asbestos contract approved

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

School officials Monday night approved a $95,099 contract for the removal of asbestos from several school buildings.

The contract, which does not cover replacement of the asbestos ceiling tiles to be removed, is with the Ferndale-based company, Dependent Insulation. School officials continue to compile bids for the replacement process and plan to submit a recommendation to board members within the next few weeks.

Asbestos, a fiberlike substance, was used as a form of fireproof insulation until the late 1970s when the Environmental Protection Agency announced it may be cancer-causing when breathed. When crushed, asbestos fibers are released into the air.

Slated for asbestos removal are Merriman Elementary School, the district administrative building and the cafeteria of Romulus Senior High School. Although asbestos has also been reported in the Beacon Day Treatment Center, school officials have decided not to remove it at this time. The program housed within the building will be relocated to another school district.

All school districts nationwide are required under federal law to develop and implement an asbestos management plan by July 9. In early May, districts were required to submit their plans to state officials for approval. A detailed list of all district buildings containing asbestos was to be included.

Now that the Romulus plan is completed, district officials hope to begin the removal process this August. This undertaking is expected to take three weeks in Merriman, one week in the administrative building and one day in the high school cafeteria.

However, nearly everything in rooms pegged for removal must be removed in advance, including carpeting.

"This is a very, very difficult situation," said Joel Carr, assistant superintendent for finance and operations.

In addition, minimal amounts of asbestos may be present in school piping elbows or within vinyl floor tiles, Carr said. District officials do not plan to tear up the school floors or walls to remove the substance at this point, but they may consider it in the future. Additional testing for asbestos may eventually prove necessary as well, Carr added.

Fond farewell

Members of the Romulus Senior High School Class of 1989 said farewell to each other Sunday afternoon at the Crisler Arena, in Ann Arbor. Attempting to remain calm, friends offered each other moral support. Before the ceremony, Debi Coalson (above, right) helped her friend Ralph Farrell with the flower on his graduation gown. Voters reject 2 ballot issues

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

During simultaneous school and special city elections Monday, Romulus voters rejected two amendment proposals and re-elected two school board members.

Proposal A would have increased the terms of all elected officials from two to four years. Votes turned down the proposal 463 to 399.

Also rejected was Proposal B, which asked voters to increase the minimum figure subject to competitive bids. City officials must now continue to seek competitive bids for material purchasing contracts for $750 or more. Voters rejected the proposal 474 to 371.

In the school election, board members Dan Bales and Sandra Langley ran unopposed. Bales received 550 votes and Langley received 514. Election results were announced Monday night during a school board meeting.

"It was a different experience because we were running unopposed," Langley said. "I'm grateful for the opportunity to continue to work toward making this a district we can all be proud of."

The district is already on the way, she added, claiming a key to all improvements is improved communication.

"I am grateful to the public. This will give us a chance to continue," she said. "We've got a lot to do."

Bales said he is also pleased with the show of voter support. With four more years on the school board lying ahead, he has set numerous goals for himself.

"To expand educational opportunities through economical means," he said. "To keep the finances of the district stabilized...and to encourage the state to increase district funding."

5-year-old burned by electrical wire

A 5-year-old girl from Romulus suffered first-, second- and third-degree burns Wednesday, when a live power line fell on her.

The girl was lying on the grass in front of her home on the 15000 block of Plainway when the live wire fell on her, according to Romulus police officials. Witnesses to the accident claim they saw sparks fly as the wire hit the girl.

The girl received burns to her left foot, leg, arm and chest. She was immediately transferred by ambulance to Mott's Children's Hospital, in Ann Arbor.

As of Tuesday the girl was listed in fair condition.

Police and fire officials are investigating the incident. They have no explanation for why the wire fell.

Residents of the neighborhood told police officials that children had been playing with the guide wires to the electrical pole prior to the incident. Officials are unsure if the activity would have caused the wire to fall.

Neighbors, however, also claim the same wire fell last year, scorching the grass.

Representatives from Detroit Edison are unable to offer an explanation for the incident at this time.

"Basically, at this point we are continuing the investigation," said Lorie Kessler, representing Detroit Edison media relations.

Kessler confirmed neighbors' reports that the wire also fell last year.

Anti-abortion march staged

Approximately 20 people marched in front of Northland Family Planning, in Romulus, Friday morning, protesting the abortion services offered at the clinic.

"It was basically uneventful," said Renee Chelian, clinic director.

When a school bus stopped nearby to pick up children, however, demonstrators waved their signs in the bus windows, Chelian said.

"I thought that showed no respect for the children," Chelian said.

Many of the protesters are believed to be Romulus residents.

Northland Family Planning was one of four area clinics pegged for protest by members of the Pro-Life movement Friday, according to Chelian. Saturday, 12 clinics were targeted.

Patients entering Northland Family Planning Friday were assisted by two escorts from the Downriver Chapter of the National Organization for Women.

State Supreme Court denies local appeal case

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Attempts to appeal a court case involving the 1985 murder of two Romulus men were halted last week when the Michigan Supreme Court refused to hear the case.

Van Robin Hooper, 24, and Charles David Stanley, 27, were shot to death in Hooper's car on the morning of April 6, 1985.

In September, 1985, Robert A. Williams, 33, of Romulus, was convicted of first-degree murder in connection with the shootings along with two counts of possession of a firearm during a felony.

Williams was sentenced by Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman to two mandatory life sentences to be served consecutively with a two-year sentence for the firearm felony.

Williams appealed the ruling to the Michigan Court of Appeals based on three points.

First, Williams claimed he received inadequate assistance from defense attorney Martin Marcus during his trial. Williams claimed Marcus failed to convey information to him about a possible plea bargain offer.

In addition, Williams claimed the trial court should have suppressed statements he made to Romulus police officers immediately after the shootings. He said he was in custody during the questioning and should have been read his rights.

Also, Williams claimed the trial court should have established whether or not he was a principal offender or aiding and abetting the crime.

Williams was not in custody at the time of the questioning, according to Romulus police officials.

In January, this case was placed under the jurisdiction of the Michigan Supreme Court. The court remanded the case to trial court for findings of fact regarding the plea bargain issue Jan. 25.

On June 9 the Michigan Supreme Court denied Williams' application to appeal. Three of the supreme court justices dissented the court opinion. Michael Cavanagh, Dennis Archer and Charles Levin.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Cadillac goes 'up in smoke'

What started as an overheated engine June 5 turned into a car fire on I-275.

A couple from Taylor was driving northbound on I-275, north of Eureka, when the engine warning light appeared. Smoke started to come from under the hood of the 1984 Cadillac when the driver pulled over to the berm. The couple walked to a nearby pay telephone to call for help. When they returned, their car was engulfed in flames.

No injuries were reported.

Numerous tire slashings reported

Six tire slashings were reported June 3 near the Romulus Senior Towers on Shook Road.

Each of the cars damaged had one slashed tire.

The following night, the tires were slashed on three cars parked at the Beacon Day Treatment Center on Olive.

The cases remain under investigation. Police have no suspects.

Members of the Romulus Right to Life organization will stage a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Romulus Recreation Center, 36515 Bibbins.

School millage levy approved

Summer means millage levies for the Romulus school district and residents should expect to see tax bills in the mailbox in upcoming week.

During a board of education meeting staged Monday night, school officials agreed to levy 23.60 mills for operation and 1 mill for debt retirement this summer. This levy represents $9,275,536 of revenue.

The district levies taxes twice every year. The next set of tax bills come in the winter; a total of 24.55 mills will be levied. In total, the district levies 49.15 mills annually.

Seniors celebrate spring weather

Transportation will be provided through the Romulus Senior Center for those interested in attending the Belleville Strawberry Festival Friday.

In addition, a potluck picnic is planned for 5 p.m. June 20 in the park behind the center. Participants are encouraged to bring a dish to pass.

For more information on either of these activities, call the senior center at 942-6852.

Clarifications

A June 1 article about Thomas Gondek, the new director for the Romulus Help Center, should have stated Gondek once ran for Romulus City Council. He was not elected.

The summary of candidates for local school board positions printed June 8 incorrectly stated board member Dan Bales did not submit a questionnaire. When compiling the candidate profiles, the editorial staff of The Associated Newspapers overlooked the information Bales submitted.

Local golfers 'tee up' for drug program

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Pleased with the turnout at the Second Annual Golf Outing, organizers announced Monday the event collected $2,000 for the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse Prevention.

Members of the Romulus Command Officers Association coordinated the event, which was staged Friday at the Shady Hollow Golf Course. More than 100 people participated.

Most of the proceeds from the outing will go toward summer youth education programs.

"It seems like everybody had a lot of fun," said Sgt. Dan Snyder, one of the organizers. "We'd like to thank all the businesses...everybody who helped behind the scenes."

In the women's division, the team of Mary Starr and Kathy Genaw took first prize. For their accomplishment, they received a trophy, jackets and free admission to the event next year.

First place in the men's division were Lou Brightman and Jack Carrier. Brightman and Carrier won second place in the event last year.

Second place in the men's division were Dick Kruse and Terry LeCesne. They won a trophy and free admission for the tournament next year.

Recognition was also extended to the man and woman with the longest drive. Greg Morris and Starr were the winners. Each received 12 golf balls and a trophy.

For the golfer with the ball closest to the pin after the first drive, two round-trip tickets to Chicago were offered by Southwest Airlines for $1. Joe Davies, chief of police for Van Buren Township, was the winner.

Actually, each of the 107 golfers in this event walked away with a prize, Snyder said, because of the raffle. Prizes included 15 hotel packages, 12 tickets for Detroit Tiger games, power screwdrivers and footballs. Thirty-nine local businesses contributed prizes for the raffle.

"It worked out pretty well for them," Snyder said.

This marks the second year for the annual golf outing staged by the Romulus Command Officers Association. Proceeds from the event go to the Mayor's Task Force on Substance Abuse Prevention. This year, the money is expected to go toward summer youth education programs. More than 100 participants attended, collecting $2,000 for the program. Concentration was evident on the faces of the participants, such as Sue Cichowski (above) and Sgt. Eric Painte (left) of the Romulus Police Department. ANP photos by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

The efforts of two very different community volunteers were recognized recently in the form of distinguished service awards from the Romulus Recreation Advisory Board.

Dave Ries and Richard Szente were presented with their awards during the Romulus Festival.

To qualify, candidates must have spent at least five years as a volunteer in one or more recreational activities for the community.

Although both recipients have been active community members for years, the award came as complete surprises for both of them.

"I was sitting out here with my wife at the edge of a tent... When she (the announcer) mentioned Channel 7, I knew she was talking about me," Ries said.

The lifetime Romulus resident was interviewed on television recently because of the active lifestyle he maintains despite being legally blind. Ries is especially proud of his involvement with a local senior citizen bowling league.

However, it is his efforts for the city that earned him the service award. In 1978, Ries became publicity chairman for the Romulus Senior Citizen Club. The following year, he became club president. In 1980, he and five other members organized a fundraiser to obtain central air conditioning for the senior center.

Although he recently dropped the club, Ries remains active with the senior center and has no intentions of stopping.

"I can't sit around doing nothing," he said.

Ries said spending time with his wife, Mabel, their two children and their three grandchildren are also important priorities.

While most of Ries' efforts have gone toward senior citizen activities, Richard Szente has concentrated on youth programs. Currently, he coaches youth softball for the city.

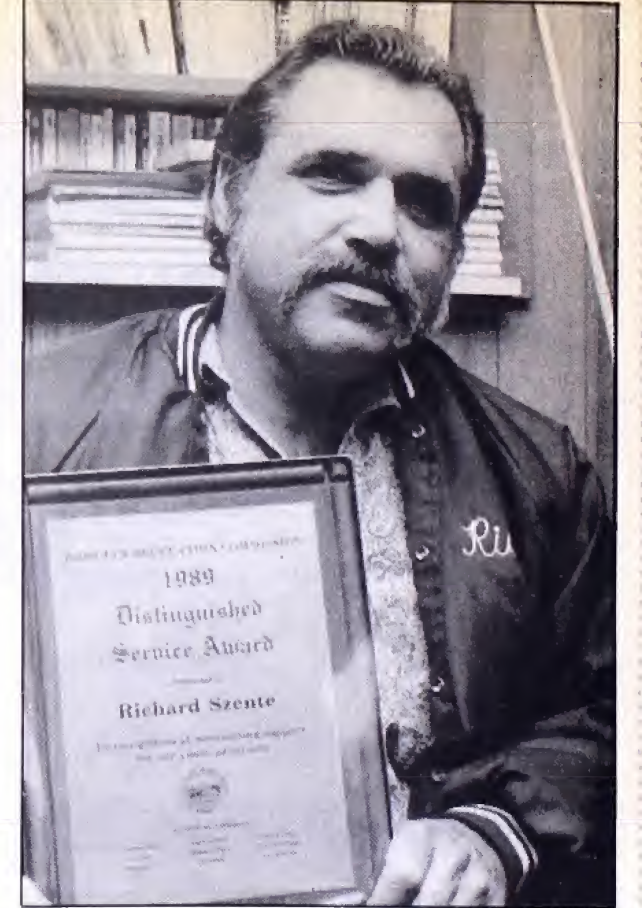

Szente is also a member of the local band boosters who help support high school musicians through various projects.

"We help the band in any way we can," he said.

When Szente's 16-year-old daughter, Becky, started asking him questions about his volunteer activities, Szente thought he was nominated for some form of parent recognition through the high school. He never suspected she had nominated him for the distinguished service award.

Nevertheless, Szente believes the recognition he received should be shared with his family: Debbie, 20; Diana, 17; Becky, 16; John, 11 and his wife, Nancy.

"If it wasn't for their support, I wouldn't be able to do it," he said.

This year the Romulus Recreation Commission presented two Distinguished Service Awards. Richard Szente and Dave Ries learned they were the winners several weeks ago during the Romulus Festival. ANP photos by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Authorities pleased with 9-1-1

By FLORENCE MEEKS

"It's great so far. There's still a few bugs in the system."
— Lt. Robert Brown
Romulus

Several days after the 9-1-1 emergency system became operational in Romulus, police officials are pleased with the results.

"It's great so far," Lt. Robert Brown said. "There's still a few bugs in the system."

Romulus, along with 16 other communities in Western Wayne County, initiated an enhanced 9-1-1 emergency telephone system Friday. Romulus residents can, in emergency situations, dial 9-1-1 instead of a seven-digit number to receive police assistance.

In addition, the enhanced system immediately identifies the telephone and address of the caller and flashes the information on the dispatcher computer screen.

Currently, police officials report they have received a minimal amount of non-emergency calls through the system.

"We have not run into the problems other emergency systems have," Brown said.

As for bugs in the system, Brown said those are to be expected. Some of the calls have registered telephone numbers without addresses. One call meant for Romulus went to Taylor authorities. Romulus officials are working with Michigan Bell to correct these problems, Brown said.

The 9-1-1 system is strictly for emergency calls — fire, medical or police emergencies. Non-emergency police calls should be placed through 941-8400.

Examples of non-emergency calls include minor personal injuries such as bruises, scrapes and minor burns. Also considered non-emergency are minor car accidents, animals in trees, break-ins when the burglar is gone, thefts and police reports.

In addition to Romulus, 16 other members of the Conference of Western Wayne County "turned on" the system Friday — Westland, Wayne, Canton Township, Inkster, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township, Dearborn, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Redford Township.

New 9-1-1 system links area with safety

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Following the official "turn on" of the enhanced 911 emergency telephone service at exactly 9:11 a.m. Friday, more than one million area residents and visitors gained access to fire, police and ambulance services by dialing the three digits.

The official beginning of the service, conducted at the Dearborn Heights City Hall, drew county and state officials as well as representatives from the 17 communities which form the Conference of Western Wayne. Plans to implement the emergency service were begun more than three years ago by the CWW member communities and 911 coordinator Joseph Benyo. The new system allows callers into the system to be identified by phone number and address on a computer screen, thus aiding young children, the handicapped, elderly infirm and foreign speaking individuals to gain emergency services.

Benyo said the implementation of the enhanced 911 service should be a matter of pride for everyone present.

"There is no letter 'I' in this. No one individual can take credit for it," Benyo said. "It was a team effort."

"If this (enhanced 911) saves one life some day, it will be well worthwhile," said Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, who also serves as CWW chairman.

Joining the 9-1-1 turn-on Friday were several local officials, including Westland Mayor and Conference of Western Wayne Chairman Charles Griffin (left of 9-1-1 box) and Dearborn Heights Mayor Lyle Van Houten (right of box). ANP photo by Joan Mary Dyer

State Rep. Justine Barns of Westland called the event "a great day for Western Wayne County." She termed enhanced 911 as a farsighted move for the CWW members.

"I am concerned with home rule, and I see this as an example of the responsibility and energy in local governments. I like to see local people put together as much as they can, and this is a great example," Barns said.

County Commissioner Kay Beard, who served as a member of a special enhanced 911 committee, said she was pleased to be a small part of the project. Beard said the implementation of enhanced 911 "has added to the quality of life in western Wayne County."

Cedar Point trip planned

The 120 members of the Romulus Junior High School band will climb aboard buses today for a trip to the Cedar Point amusement park, in Sandusky, Ohio.

The trip was approved by the members of the Romulus Board of Education.

Band director Dick Kruse and 10 parents accompanied the musicians on the trip.

The annual field trip is planned by Kruse to congratulate band members on a job well done. The junior high school band has proved to be quite successful this year capturing several major music awards.

The students left for their trip at 6:30 a.m. They were due to arrive at the amusement park at 9 a.m. and are scheduled to depart at 9 p.m. The band members are expected back at the school by midnight.

Friday marks end of year

Friday will mark the end of the 1988-89 school year for Romulus students.

Friday will also mark the end of classes at Hayti Elementary School. The elementary school will be closed this year due to declining enrollment in the district.

School will resume in August 1989.

Oh, Canada

Better relations to benefit Wayne County

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

"The best is yet to come" in trade relations between the U.S. and Canada, according to Marc Lemieux at a legislative forum sponsored Monday by the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce.

And, "the best to come" could create a booming international market place in Wayne County, with goods crossing the border by truck, rail, sea and air in a "two-way street" of international trade.

Interest in the prospect of increased trade between the two countries brought Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally to the forum, staged in Southgate.

"I'm optimistic that the free trade agreement will bring more business to our area. We have a great, friendly country on our border, and we need to take advantage of the opportunities there," McAnally said.

"I've been working on this (trade expansion) with a South-eastern Michigan Congress of Governments committee for some time. Also, we are aware of the potential for firms doing international business to locate in Romulus, and we have been working on that. I see this as a good opportunity for Romulus in the future."

Lemieux, consul general of Canada in Detroit, called the newly adopted free-trade agreement a "win-win situation" by which both countries will prosper. Lemieux acknowledged that the agreement is not perfect, but added that there are measures within the agreement to resolve disputes.

"It is not perfect. Not all subjects are covered, but - as the expression goes - 'give us a break,' Lemieux said. "For the first time, it (the free trade agreement) is not a bad one. Perhaps, some businesses may take advantage of it right away, and others cannot take advantage of it until later. It must be seen in the long term. It is very comprehensive - some 1,000 pages."

Lemieux said if Michigan

I'm optimistic that the free-trade agreement will bring more business to our area. We have a great, friendly country on our border, and we need to take advantage of the opportunities there.

— Beverly McAnally
City of Romulus mayor

were considered as a country, it would be the second largest trade market for Canadian goods. Michigan is second to the U.S. as a whole, he said.

John Millson, mayor of Windsor, Ont., expressed his belief that a brisk trade has existed between the two countries for the past two decades. He noted that travel between the two countries for goods and services has become commonplace.

For example, he told the audience, "it took me 17 minutes to get here (Southgate), my kids ski in Riverview and I have a Pace (warehouse store) card in my wallet."

Millson said the area is "ripe for a new bridge" linking the two countries, but added, "air, sea, rail and automobile" are all important links between the markets.

Improvements eyed at airport

Members of the Wayne County Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services are considering several improvements for the Detroit Metropolitan Airport, in Romulus.

A budget amendment was approved Friday to utilize a $981,000 federal grant for runway and taxiway improvements for Concourse C. The improvements are contingent upon plans by Northwest Airlines officials to use larger aircrafts for international flights.

In addition, committee members will present county commissioners with a proposal to replace the clock mechanism used to indicate times for incoming and outgoing flights. The project would cost approximately $1,200.

Duty-free shop is considered

Wayne County officials are accepting bids for an export/duty-free concession stand at Detroit Metropolitan Airport, in Romulus.

Members of the county Committee on Roads, Airports and Public Services intend to submit whatever bids are received to operate the facility to county commissioners.

County begins safety program

Wayne County officials have instituted a safety program for the summer months.

In the "Eyes and Ears" program, identification decals, supplied by officials from Detroit Edison, have been affixed to more than 275 orange Wayne County Department of Public Service radio-equipped vehicles. The purpose is to attempt to alert the public, especially youths, that the vehicle is an emergency reporting station and that the county employee operating the vehicle is trained to offer emergency assistance.

Senior center nets grant

The Sullivan Senior Citizen Center - which provides services to seniors in Sumpter Township - has received approval from the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging for a renovation grant to upgrade the facility, according to state Rep. Lynn Owen (D-Maybelle).

Officials at the center will purchase kitchen cupboards and drapes.

Parks officials elected to terms

New officers for the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority Board of Directors were recently elected. The HCMA includes 13 Metroparks serving citizens of Wayne, Oakland, Macomb, Livingston and Washtenaw counties. The new directors are Harry Lester, who serves as chairman; Robert Marans, vice chairman; and James Young, treasurer.

The new officers will each serve one-year terms, ending June 1, 1990.

Ticket sales bill introduced

State Rep. Kirk Profit (D-Ypsilanti) introduced a bill June 8 that would exclude tickets from being included in perishable items that must be sold to the highest bidder.

Officials of the Michigan Treasury Department recently seized several Detroit Pistons playoff tickets in a drug raid in West Bloomfield and were required to auction the tickets to the highest bidder.

Medicaid expert speaks June 22

Medicaid reform expert, Allan Bergman, deputy director of the United Cerebral Palsy Association governmental activities office, will discuss Medicaid reform at 4 p.m. June 22 at the Wayne County Intermediate School District Annex, 33500 Van Born, in Wayne. The meeting is free and open to the public. Call 557-5050.

Summer fun?

Area youngsters must heed local laws

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Is it getting tougher for kids to have summer fun?

With all the possibilities, that's not likely. But students who are out of school for the summer should be aware that local communities expect them to behave.

Many municipal governments have some sort of ordinances to keep certain traditional summer activities from getting out of hand.

Few communities have had to act as severely as Plymouth, which now issues tickets for "cruising", or driving continuously in the same area without going anywhere.

But in other local spots, youths should also beware before they break out the skateboards, roller skates and bicycles.

In Romulus, skateboarding is not allowed on public or private property. According to Steve Jankel of the city ordinance office, many people are concerned about potential liability from skateboarders.

Although the city has some plans to build a designated skateboarding area into Elmer Johnson Park, it's risky now to hit the skids in Romulus.

In Wayne, skateboarders and roller skaters simply must adhere to the state uniform traffic code. That means it is not illegal to skate, but it cannot be done in the street except at crosswalks.

Ironically, it is not technically illegal to ride your skateboard across the street - instead of walking it - as long as it is done at a crosswalk.

In Westland, young bicyclists should carry an important document at all times - a note from their parents.

Westland youths younger than 12 must ride their bikes on the sidewalk where sidewalks are available. But where there are no sidewalks, they can ride in the street only if they carry written permission from their parents.

Youths between 12 and 17 may ride on any street as long as they carry permission from their parents. Violators of the ordinance could have their bikes taken by the city for as long as six months.

In Belleville and Canton and Van Buren townships, officials said there are no ordinances to govern the use of such recreational vehicles, largely because there have been few problems reported.

"We really do not have a downtown where that tends to be a problem," Canton Township Clerk Loren Bennett said. "They usually go away from the cars, and I've never had a complaint."

In Van Buren, police chief Joseph Davies said the mostly rural township has few areas where skateboarding youths can go to ply their trade.

Forum to promote recycling

To encourage composting and recycling efforts in the area, the Downriver Community Conference will stage several public forums this month.

Composting and recycling are considered the safest and cleanest methods for solving the solid-waste problem in the area.

During the forums, area residents will be invited to ask questions and express their views on recycling and composting, as well as other waste-reduction alternatives.

Two more forums are planned for the public. From 7 to 9 p.m. tonight, a forum will be staged at Allen Park City Hall, 16850 Southfield. From 1 to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, a forum will be staged at the DCC office, 15199 Northline, Room 102, Southgate.

For more information, call the DCC office at 281-0700.

Measles outbreak

Health department watches western Wayne

By BARBARA WILSON
ANP News Editor

Measles — the disease which afflicted students and nearly closed Garden City schools last month — has now spread into Westland and remains a threat to the surrounding areas, health department officials said last week.

Approximately 200 cases of rebeola measles have been reported in the 43 communities of Wayne County, excluding Detroit, according to Dr. Donald Lawrenchuck, medical director of the Wayne County Health Department.

An exclusion order is in effect at John Glenn High School, where one measles case has been reported. The order means that students without proper vaccinations are prohibited from attending classes and student activities.

The one case at John Glenn is the only substantiated case in the immediate area, Lawrenchuck said. Several cases, however, have been reported in the neighboring communities of Garden City, New Boston and Wyandotte.

Nationwide, 11 deaths have been linked to the most recent outbreak of the measles disease, which is believed to have been spread by Florida, spring-break vacationers.

One Garden City High School student, Lawrenchuck said, remains in serious condition, as a result of measles.

"Even school districts with model vaccination programs, such as Wayne-Westland, are not safe," Lawrenchuck said. "The outbreak is more the result of a weakness in the vaccination."

The vaccine for measles, Lawrenchuck said, is one of the best available. However, failure has been reported in the vaccine.

In normal circumstances, the vaccination is 94 percent successful.

Rubeola is the most serious variety of measles. It is also known as hard or red measles. A second variety, rubella — German measles — is less serious.

The measles virus has a successful attack rate, causing the sickness in 95 percent of the people in contact with it, Lawrenchuck said. The airborne virus can be transferred simply by breathing the air in the same room as a contaminated carrier.

Because of the ease with which the disease can be transferred, health officials were quick to issue an exclusion order at afflicted schools, Lawrenchuck said.

Students who have not been vaccinated against the measles and those who received the vaccination prior to age 15 months are being excluded from all student activities and classes.

"Before you are 15 months old, your immune system is not fully developed, so it is probable that the vaccination did not catch hold," Lawrenchuck said.

Although there is only one confirmed case at John Glenn High School, Lawrenchuck said, precautions must be taken, because that person may have attended school for several weeks, carrying the disease without knowing it.

All area residents, Lawrenchuck said, should check the status of their measles vaccinations and take proper precautions.

Symptoms of measles vary but typically begin as a cold, with coughing, sneezing and other cold-like symptoms.

After a few days, a rash may form, usually in the area of the face, and the patient will develop a high fever.

State dunes promoted

Legislation helps save fragile lands

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

Resembling the sandy deserts of Nevada and Arizona, but sporting typical 75-degree summer days are the Michigan sand dunes which line the western part of the state.

The dunes cover more than 60,000 acres, according to Al Sandner, senior communications manager with the Michigan Travel Bureau. In fact, the state boasts the highest fresh water dunes in the world - located at Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lake Shore.

"The dunes line the Lake Michigan and Lake Superior shores. They are made from the lakes and the predominant westwardly winds," Sandner said. "The water carries sand with it to form the dunes. The winds reshape them finally."

The reshaping process is what makes the dunes attractive. Many of the 55 million tourists who visited Michigan last year, stopped for a look at the dunes, Sandner said.

One major dune area - approximately 45 miles in length - is at Indiana Dunes National Lake Shore. This park is located in Indiana, but on the Lake Michigan shoreline. Other popular spots are Warren Dunes State Park, near Harbort, and Grand Mere Dunes, near Stevensville and Bridgman.

South Haven and Van Buren State Park, Grand Haven, Muskegon, Saugatuck Dunes, Silver Lake and Sleeping Bear Dunes are also popular areas.

"People can climb the dunes at Sleeping Bear, which is about 400 or 500 feet high. Also, people can drive through the Pierce-Stocking Interpretive Trails," Sandner said.

Vacationers can also visit the P.J. Hoffmaster Dunes Interpretive Center, where educational information is provided about Michigan dunes. The center is located at the P.J. Hoffmaster State Park.

Keeping the dunes beautiful are the state legislators, who have recently approved two bills regulating dune developments, according to Tom Klunzinger, spokesman for Rep.

Gerald Law (R-Canton Township).

House Bill 4296 and Senate Bill 179 restricts development on most ecologically fragile sand dunes. In addition, the legislation would authorize local government officials to enact ordinances regulating residential, commercial and industrial development in specific areas identified by the state Department of Natural Resources as fragile areas.

"The DNR would notify each government containing a critical area. The local government then could either enact a local ordinance or turn authority over to the DNR. They would have until June 30, 1990," Klunzinger said.

House members are reviewing HB 4296 - which was approved by members of the state Senate June 8 - while Senate members are reviewing SB 179. If both are approved, they will go to Gov. Blanchard for signature.

"These laws are important because the dunes are important and fragile resources. We have to make sure we don't destroy them. There is sand mining that goes on and destroys the dunes," Sandner said.

Traveling pets need extra attention

By THOMAS M. VARCIE
ANP Staff Writer

When traveling with pets on a summer vacation, the watchwords are "be careful."

On a sunny, 90-degree day, a car with the window slightly rolled down becomes a 120-degree furnace within 10 minutes. Imagine if the family dog or cat were in the car.

Most families do not consider this, according to Jackie Kunze, assistant shelter manager at the Michigan Humane Society, in Westland. Many families take pets on vacation, but neglect to take proper care of them.

"The situation in the car is very deadly for the animal because they could die of exhaustion," Kunze said.

With several pet-traveling tips provided by Kunze, a successful vacation can be assured.

First, Kunze suggested pets receive all updated vaccinations before traveling, especially when traveling by airplane.

All pets should also wear proper identification tags, including the owner's name, address and telephone number.

Before leaving on trips, Kunze suggested taking the pet for "mini-trips" to the store or gas station.

"If an animal is not used to riding in a car, the animal may get car sick. Sometimes, the ride is very traumatic for them. The short trips can get them used to riding," Kunze said.

To relieve a fear of flying, Kunze offers this suggestion.

"When the pet goes on the plane, leave a toy or towel from home that it's used to. At least that can keep it company during the flight," Kunze said.

Pets should not be fed immediately before leaving, Kunze said.

"Many times, the animal can get sick when riding in the car if they just ate. If you're driving, try to feed them periodically along the way," Kunze said.

When a pet begins to pant heavily in the car, Kunze said it is best to stop the car and let the animal out for a walk.

"That's when you need to stop at a rest area and walk the animal around, feed them and give them water. The animals should be let out of the car every time the family stops," Kunze said.

Because seatbelts are not made for dogs or cats in the typical vehicle, Kunze said families must be prepared for accidents. Cats should be kept in the carrier and dogs should remain in the backseat, either on someone's lap or on the floor.

THE STAR OF DETROIT

Experience the City Like Never Before

Same idea.
746 more horses.

Perhaps Charlton Heston cut a more imposing figure during the chariot race in Ben-Hur.

But drivers like Danny Sullivan, Bobby Rahal and Al Unser, Jr., will make the competition just as exciting at this year's Valvoline Detroit Grand Prix.

Because a $100,000 prize for the winner is a better incentive for a good race than a visit to the lions for the losers. And the chariots are a lot more interesting because they're powered by a few more horses.

So get your tickets now and set aside June 16-18 for the fastest action this side of the Coliseum.

Does anybody out there remember tomato soup cake? How about the recipe for Hellmann's mayonnaise chocolate cake? These are a pair of recipes that bring back memories. Or how about Red Velvet Cake or Hershey's Chocolate Town Cake? And remember when Herman was the big item to be cultivating in the refrigerator? Many a homemaker tried these daring recipes decades ago when first concocted and distributed at family gatherings on scraps of napkins, backs of paper plates and corners of tablecloths. Many a tomato soup cake was prepared following directions hand lettered on the reverse side of baby shower paper by Great Aunt Mildred, who got it at Nora's cousin's bridal shower from Peggy, you know, that friend of Ida's.

Finally, Campbell's Soup wised up and printed the recipe on the back of the tomato soup can, and then later in a book of recipes, which interested cooks could obtain for 25 cents and 12 labels from any variety of Campbell's. It may be revealing a deep secret, but I remember my mother collecting her labels and mailing in the coupon, although she did fret a bit about mailing a quarter-cash, you know.

This terrific recipe, along with one Hunt's Tomato Sauce developed some years later in an attempt to capture some of the sweet-tooth market, is among those in the wonderful book found last week in Best Recipes From the backs of Boxes, Bottles, Cans and Jars. Frankly, it has been a real trip down memory lane just reading some of these great ideas from the 30s and 40s when food was less sophisticated and a lot more nourishing.

Prices were of great concern to cooks then, too, so the economy of a recipe was important, but to gain the much-sought attention of other cooks in the social strata, the ingredients had to include something really bizarre. The ratio of attention and desirability was in direct proportion to the outlandish contents of the dessert.

Tomato soup cake

2 1/4 cups cake flour or 2 cups all-purpose flour
1 1/3 cups sugar
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 1/2 teaspoons allspice
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 10 3/4 can Campbell's Condensed Tomato Soup
1/2 cup shortening
2 eggs
1/4 cup water

Preheat the oven to 350 degrees and generously grease and flour two round-layer cake pans on one 13-by-9-inch pan. Measure dry ingredients into large bowl. Add soup and shortening. Beat at low to medium speed for 2 minutes scraping sides and bottom of bowl constantly. Add eggs and water. Beat 2 minutes more. Pour into pan and bake for 35 to 40 minutes. Let cool before frosting with cream cheese icing.

Cream cheese icing

1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
2 cups powdered sugar
1 tablespoon butter, softened
2 to 3 tablespoons milk

Mix all ingredients until texture is smooth.

and BARBARA WILSON

Talk about temptation . . . A mouthwatering selection of dishes — ranging from Chinese fare to cajun-style cooking — will be presented to the public June 25 during the International Taste of Westland.

The key word for the event is "indulge." The festival, staged annually, is designed to collect funds for the Westland Cultural Society. Chefs from several local restaurants will participate by supplying a variety of dishes for guests.

The chefs and other representatives from the restaurants will be available to meet the public and answer questions. The chefs will unveil their culinary masterpieces at 7 p.m.

The event is being staged in Westland Center, located on Warren Road, at Wayne Road, in Westland.

In addition to the international dishes, live entertainment will be provided. Along with a mariachi band, Motown Review will perform.

Another highlight of the festival will be the door prizes, most of which have been donated by local businesses. Prizes include a 1/2-carat diamond ring from Shifrin-Willens Jewelers, a pass to Cedar Point, dinner for two at the Cactus Club, a golf outing or $20 gift certificate from Hawthorne Valley, Metro Passbooks from the Associated Newspapers, a $25 gift certificate from Red Lobster and gift certificates for $100, $200 and $300.

Among the restaurants scheduled for the event are the following:

• The Cactus Club, in Westland, will present barbecued pork ribs, beef ribs and chicken, prepared by chef Mike Jacobi.

• Chuck Muer's, in Wayne, will present cajun-style fish. Kitchen Manager Jack Ringwood will prepare the dish.

• Westland-based Blazo's chefs will feature several homemade pies. They will be presented by John McEvilly.

• Mr. Mike's, in Westland, will feature nachos at the festival. Preparing the dish will be 22-year employee Lena Courtwright.

• Farwell & Friends, in Westland, will present one of the eatery specialties, cajun-style New York strip steak, prepared by Louis Vernal.

• Mr. Steak, in Westland, will feature shish kebab, presented by Tom Naumovski.

• The China Star Palace, in Westland, will present an exotic dish, balamaki, prepared by Hong Nip.

• Italian Gardens, in Westland, will feature lasagna, presented by David Pfeiffer.

Additional, non-restaurant participants include Mr. Bulkies, in Westland, supplying dinner mints; and Frontier Fruits, in Westland, offering nut cups.

Other recent additions to the list of restaurants include Albie's Pasty & Sub Shop, Amantea, Cinnacraz, Cadillac Coffee Co., Hathorne Gardens, Red Lobster, Superior Coffee & Foods, Rudys V Holiday Inn-Detroit Fairlane, Blarney Bay Pub and Captain Nemo's Submarines.

Openings remain for other area chefs interested in joining the participating restaurants. More information is available by calling 425-5001.

Tickets for the Taste of Westland are now on sale for $20 per person. Tickets are available at the Westland Center office; Westland City Hall, on Ford Road; Westland Chamber of Commerce, on Ford Road; Westland Senior Resource Center, on Newburgh Road; and the Associated Newspapers, on Michigan Avenue.

For a preview of the dishes planned for this event, chefs from many of the participating restaurants have supplied recipes below. Most of these recipes net large portions.

Shish kebab marinade (Mr. Steak)

2 number 10 cans ketchup
1/2 can salad oil
1 bottle Lea & Perrin steak sauce
2 teaspoons black pepper
2 teaspoons white pepper
2 teaspoons salt
1 tablespoon garlic powder

Mix ingredients well. Dip bite-size chunks of beef or lamb in mixture, wrap in plastic wrap and refrigerate overnight. This mixture can be stored up to 1 week and can be used for 300 kebabs.

Cajun spices for steak (Farwell & Friends)

1 tablespoon garlic salt
1 tablespoon black pepper
1 tablespoon thyme
1 tablespoon oregano
1 tablespoon finely crushed red pepper
1 tablespoon cayenne pepper
Paprika
Salt

Paprika and salt should make 2/3 of spice mixture. Measurements for the other spices can be altered according to taste (1 tablespoon is a general guideline). After broiling steak, brush it with melted butter. Coat with mixture of seasonings. In very hot iron skillet, blacken meat on each side with a little butter. Serve on very hot plate.

Nachos (Mr. Mike's)

1 medium bag corn tortilla chips
5 pieces chopped jalapeno pepper (optional)
1/2 cup prepared chili
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese
1/2 cup shredded lettuce
1/4 cup sour cream
1/2 chopped tomato

Layer on serving dish chips, chili and cheese. Cook in microwave oven 40 seconds on high. Top with lettuce, sour cream, tomato and peppers if desired. Yields 1 serving.

JUST MARRIED

Posegay — Mills

Attendants in emerald green preceded Lynne Posegay down the aisle of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, in New Boston, for her marriage to Richard Dale Mills April 29.

The Rev. Alexander J. Wytrwal officiated during the double-ring ceremony, before an altar adorned with white and pink floral arrangements.

Cousins of the bride, Kathy Briggs and Mary Jo Posegay, accompanied by Allan Nahajewski, presented the musical selections, including The Wedding Song and When I'm With You.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Posegay, of Rymut Drive, Belleville. The groom's parents are Mrs. Sandra Mills, of Detroit, and the late Clifford Mills, of Belleville.

The striking, dark-haired

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mills

bride, who was escorted down the aisle by her father, chose for her wedding a satin, full-length gown, featuring a Victorian collar, embroidered illusion net bodice, perky satin sleeves puffed at the shoulder and trimmed with seed pearl and lace. An ornate pearl fringe cascaded down the open back to a peplum waistline and a lace-edged skirt with chapel-length train.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids.

A bouffant, elbow-length silk illusion veil with scattered seed pearls was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Henry Publiski, and it was attached to a delicate, crystal, pearl and rhinestone crown, which was also worn by the bride's mother and sister on their wedding days.

Lisa Posegay and Lori Green shared the duties of maid and matron of honor for their sister. Other bridesmaids were her cousins, Ann Rymut and Constance Keene-Meyer, sister of the groom Donna Elliot and friends Kelly McWilliams, Marie Friske and Kathy Bock.

The girls wore identical teal-length, emerald green, taffeta gowns with raised hemline in front and puffed sleeves that tapered to the elbow. They carried large bouquets of spring flowers in shades of pink.

The groom chose as his best man his longtime friend, Pete McWilliams. Other groomsmen were his brothers-in-law, Steve Green and Rick Elliot. Cliff Mays, cousin of the groom, and Mark McArthur, cousin of the bride, along with friends Artie Messer, Brad Kirby, John Wilson and Bill Corbin completed the group of ushers.

After a lovely ceremony, the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Rick Mills, with family and friends, enjoyed an evening of dining and dancing at the P.N.A. Hall, in Belleville.

The bride and groom are both graduates of Belleville High School. Lynne is currently employed as a business travel counselor at the American Express Co. offices in Dearborn.

Olympic great offers advice

It isn't often that young athletes can see an internationally famous, Olympic gold-medalist in action.

But Belleville High and area prep track & field team members received that once-in-a-lifetime opportunity last week when Olympic double gold medalist Jackie Joyner-Kersey became the featured speaker and performer at an area workshop.

Athletes from Belleville joined about 125 women who participated in the "McDonald's Dream Machine" track and field clinic hosted by Rochester High School.

Joyner-Kersey, gold medalist in both the long jump and heptathlon from the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul, Korea, conducted this special track clinic along with Gail Devers-Robert, co-holder of the American 100-meter hurdles record with Jackie.

Along with top coaches from the area, Jackie and Gail instructed the aspiring Olympians in the McDonald's Dream Machine Clinic in six events: sprint starts, running drills, hurdles, long jump, high jump, and shot put.

Olympic track & field great Jackie Joyner-Kersey demonstrates the long jump technique that helped her win a gold medal in the Olympics in Korea. Belleville High track & field team members joined area preps at a clinic where Jackie was the featured speaker and performer. She was sponsored by the McDonald's Dream Machine.

Joyner-Kersey conducted the clinic through the McDonald's Dream Machine, a special program created for McDonald's Joyner-Kersey to give motivational talks at schools and conduct track-and-field clinic in the cities across the United States.

Joyner-Kersey has a special message to share with young people, that dreams really can come true.

Joyner-Kersey shared with the young athletes at the clinic her own personal formula for success. She said that success included the "4-D's - minus one" - determination, dedication, desire (minus drugs).

The internationally acclaimed track & field great added that "I have achieved my dreams, and now my goal is to show young people that they can, too."

Voters place prep athletics in jeopardy

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

While high school athletes in the Westwood and Inkster school districts can take a deep sigh of relief, their counterparts in Van Buren and Belleville wonder if their school board will carry out its threat.

And all because of the voters in their respective school districts. Members of the Van Buren School Board informed voters that if they did not receive additional funds, they would eliminate "all athletic programs" for the 1989-90 school year.

With a little less than 45 percent of the eligible electorate casting ballots on Monday, Van Buren voters sent a message that they will not cough up additional tax money for schools. They rejected a 4-mill tax increase, 1892-1714. Van Buren presently levies 41 mills (a mill represents $1 of property tax for each $1,000 of state equalized property value.)

In the meantime, Westwood survived a request for a 7-mill tax increase by a narrow four-vote margin. The voters approved the tax hike, 903-899. School officials, however, said that they expect a challenge to the final tally in the form of a recount.

"But, we are elated at the victory," said Kay Greene, business manager for the school district who stressed that those programs and layoffs that were announced to be cut if the millage had failed is expected, with board approval, to be rescinded.

That means, if the recount fails, Westwood athletes will be back in action next season.

Inkster is also celebrating its second millage victory in over a span of three months. In March, voters gave their board an additional seven mills and, on Monday, they renewed five mills.

George Thompson, athletic director, thanked the voters for their support of the school system.

"I know all of us in this school system are proud of our schools, our city, and we'd like to thank everyone who worked hard, especially the mayor (Joseph Davis, Jr.) who displayed the leadership

Wheatley leads all-conference track team

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Tyrone Wheatley, the sensational sophomore from Robichaud High, leads a star-sparkling all-Suburban Athletic Conference track & field team.

Wheatley, who recently captured three gold medals at the conference championships, then went on to win two golds in record-setting fashion at the Class B state championships staged in Flint, is one of only two Robichaud athletes named to the team.

The team is assembled by the conference coaches.

Wheatley earned all-conference recognition in the long jump thanks to a record-establishing 23 feet, 11 inches jump. He also nailed down the sprinting positions after winning the 100-yard dash in 9.8 and the 220 in 22.44.

An outstanding football as well as basketball player, Wheatley, a 6-3, 190-pound athlete, is considered one of the finest all-around athletes in the long history of the high school.

Wheatley's teammate, Roderick James, also appears in the SAC lineup. James, a senior, was named the best shot putter in the six-school SAC after he won the gold with a toss of 50 feet, 3 inches.

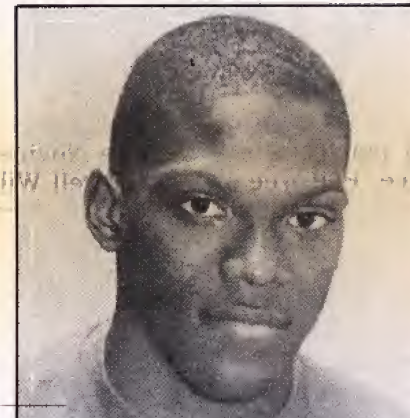

For the first time in recent years, no Inkster High athlete was picked for conference honors.

The SAC lineup also includes: William Binion (Ecorse) - high jump 6'7";

Want to learn how to play baseball?

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Youngsters, ages 6 through 12, are invited to register for an instructional baseball league that is being organized by the Inkster Parks and Recreation Department.

"This is definitely an instructional league where the kids can learn and develop baseball skills," noted Ruth E. Williams, recreation supervisor. "We'll begin with practice sessions, then have intra-park exhibitions."

Williams added that the stress "isn't on winning or losing, but on developing skills."

Practice will be staged from 10 a.m. until noon, beginning June 19 at various park sites throughout the city, including Westwood, Parkgrove, Kennedy and King. There will be a Pee Wee Division, made up of players, ages 6 to 8; and a Midget Division, for players between the ages of 9 and 12.

Registration will be accepted at the parks and recreation offices, 2025 Middlebelt, just north of Michigan Avenue. After June 19, prospective participants may sign up at the parks. There is a $6 registration fee.

Recreation officials also said that they are seeking men's adult softball teams for the third annual Johnnie A. Sims Memorial 'Open' Slow Pitch Tournament. The double-elimination tournament lured 32 teams a year ago.

Each team will be allowed to carry up to 18 payers. However, all players must be 18 or older.

There is a $100 per team registration fee. The tournament will be staged three days, beginning June 21.

The Inkster Parks and Recreation Department is also offering a "modified" fast pitch softball tournament which is scheduled for August 4 through August 6. Those wishing to enter teams should contact the parks and recreation department.

The registration fee is also $100.

Softball action got underway in the city in the adult men's, men's Class 'C', adult co-ed, and adult women's leagues.

Robichaud High hurdler sets league record

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Rita Harden, Robichaud High's outstanding hurdler, parlayed her record-setting performance in the 110-yard intermediate hurdles to a berth on the coveted Suburban Athletic Conference all-league team.

Receiving little opposition from her SAC challengers, Harden coasted to the gold in the hurdles with a 15.8, beating a duo of Oak Parkers across the finish line.

The Robichaud athlete also topped the field of long jumpers. Her leap of 15 feet, 11 3/4 inches gave her a second gold medal for the meet. She was also nominated for all-conference honors in that event.

Harden was the lone Robichaud and local athlete to appear in the SAC all-conference lineup. Named to the 1989 team are:

Diedra Fields (Highland

Park), high jump - 5 feet; Rita Harden(Robichaud), long jump - 15'11 3/4"; Angela Harrell(Oak Park), shot put -38'41/2"; Gerisha Curry(Oak Park), discus-101'5"; Barbara Tuggle(River Rouge), 100-yard dash-11.3; Rita Harden(Robichaud), 110-hurdles - 15.8; Barbara Tuggle(River Rouge), 220-yard dash - 25.41; Laundra David(Oak Park), 330-hurdles - 49.66; Shianti Cooper(Highland Park), 440-yard dash - 1:00.41; Stacey Merrell(Oak Park), 880-

2:44.88; Marveta Davis (Highland Park), mile run - 5:53.35; Darlene Thornton(Highland Park), 2-mile run - 14:05.50.

In the relays, the SAC coaches picked for the 4X110-relay: Oak Park - Lesvesque, Warren, Atkins, Tillis - 51.84; 4X220-yard relay - River Rouge - Tuggle, Price, Gooden Atwater - 1:48.4; 4X440 relay, River Rouge - Tuggle, Price, Felder, Cowan - 4:21.03; 4X880 relay, Highland Park - Thornton, Brown, Robertson, Davis - 11:06.0.

River Rouge, which surfaced from the dual meet competition with an unblemished 6-0 record, was forced to share the 1989 championship with Oak Park after the Red Skins emerged with a total of 144 points and a first-place at the conference meet. Rouge was second with 103. Following the team leaders were Highland Park -103; Dearborn Heights Robichaud 79; Inkster -59; Willow Run -3; and Ecorse - 0.

Karate club seeks funds

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Inkster's Karate Club has a distinguished history. And record. Founded by Herb Johnson, a black belter, in 1968, members of the local karate club have won state and national recognition as one of the best.

The karate tradition has been carried on by black belter Samuel Williams, the present instructor who has fielded teams that have won state recognition.

Later this month, members of the Inkster Karate Club would like to prove they are among the best. However, funds - the lack of money - may keep the team sidelined.

Appearing before Inkster City Council last week, Williams, Jr., revealed the team's dilemma and urged council members and top city officials to help summon financial support. They need the funds to finance their trip to the nationals which will be staged in Minneapolis.

"We talk about kids being hooked on drugs and getting into trouble," Williams said, "but these kids on the team don't get into trouble. They are learning self-discipline and self-defense. I am here today to plead their case."

"We need funds so that we can go to the nationals," Williams said.

Williams said the purpose of the club was to help citizens of the community "to build and focus on a better lifestyle...and to build strength and character." And he believes that the goals he has outlined for team members are being met.

Williams said that his club would have to raise about $2,200 in order to make the trip to the nationals which will be staged on June 20. He said he had five members of the club who qualified for the nationals.

Parade of stars coming

The high school baseball and softball drama may have ended for most of the teams in the area, but the Associated Newspapers' sports staff has a couple of more chapters to write before it can conclude the 1989 campaign. They'll be announcing their traditional all-area teams in the upcoming weeks. Stay tuned, the action and the suspense still linger. ANP photo by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Belleville High athletic director Michael Colletta was not available at press time for comment.

Moreover, school officials are not saying whether they will reinstate the Pay and Play system used a decade ago when the school district fell upon hard times. The system called for athletes who wished to compete in a varsity sport to pay a fee to help defray the costs of running athletic programs.

School officials however did say that they may return to the voters again at a later date for additional funds.

ON THE COVER

SALUTE TO GRADUATES: The sounds of Pomp and Circumstance were heard around the area last weekend, as seniors from area high schools participated in graduation ceremonies. The event marked the beginning of a new chapter in the lives of these youths, and it also meant a moment of sadness, gladness and cheers for the 13 years of school completed. This week, the Associated Newspapers salutes those graduates and provides this section as a last look at the Class of '89. Advertisers in this section have sponsored the accompanying photos of the graduating classes from each of the area high schools. With this section, we tip our hats to the men and women who have entered the "real world" and offer our support, our best wishes and our congratulations for a job well done! Section cover by R.J. Bourbina/ANP art director
